1 June 2019

Welcome to Washington, D.C. and the 2019 Annual Meeting of the HIV Prevention Trials Network (HPTN). We look forward to seeing you, and the more than 700 other expected attendees, as we gather once again to gauge our progress as well as discuss and consider future strategies to reduce the acquisition and transmission of HIV.

We are excited to offer a full agenda during the next few days, covering the latest developments in prevention research, and novel approaches critical to furthering our research portfolio. Topics to be discussed include sexually transmitted infections, pregnancy, multipurpose prevention technologies (MPT), substance use, sex work, and trial ethics. In addition, researchers from HPTN 071 (PopART) will share some of the study's findings, best practices, and lessons learned during a special discussion. We also invite you to attend sessions organized by the HPTN's Laboratory Center, Statistical and Data Management Center, and the HPTN Scholars. These sessions have been uniformly stellar and inspiring.

The HPTN Community Working Group starts this year's Annual Meeting with a series of talks covering best practices for community engagement, community advisory board involvement, and study participant recruitment and retention. Regional roundtable discussions and capacity building sessions are also planned.

Please visit the registration area, located outside the Thurgood Marshall Ballroom, where HPTN staff will be happy to help you with any questions regarding meeting room information, meeting times and other logistical matters. Much of this information can also be found on the HPTN mobile app. Instructions for downloading the app are available on page 3 of this booklet. You can find registration desk hours listed on this page as well.

We welcome you to the HPTN Annual Meeting and invite you to share your insights with our many colleagues from around the world.

Warm Regards,
