2022

AGENDA BOOK

WELCOME

5 June, 2022

Welcome to Washington, D.C., and the 2022 Annual Meeting of the HIV Prevention Trials Network (HPTN). We are thrilled to be able to get together again after two difficult years where the COVID-19 pandemic prevented us from seeing each other. We anticipate a wonderful gathering where we can reconnect and build new connections. For those of you who cannot join us, we will have the option of virtually attending the meeting.

As you know, our Annual Meeting has always been such an excellent opportunity to bring together hundreds of researchers, collaborators, community representatives, and government health officials worldwide to share updates on your work and accomplishments, to engage in discussions regarding the Network's scientific agenda and current and planned studies as well as to re-engage with each other as a community.

During the next few days, we will address several key topics, including long-acting biomedical PrEP interventions, integrated HIV prevention strategies, global HIV/AIDS research priorities, communications, and messaging strategies to enhance study recruitment and retention, multipurpose prevention technologies, mRNA technology as it relates to HIV vaccine development, and COVID-19's impact on HIV prevention, treatment, and research. We also invite you to attend plenary sessions organized by the HPTN's Laboratory Center, Statistical and Data Management Center, and the HPTN Scholars. All the sessions promise to be informative and inspiring.

Please visit the registration area outside the Grand Ballroom if you need assistance during the meeting. Many answers to questions can also be found on the HPTN mobile app. Instructions for downloading the app are available in this booklet.

We ask you to stay engaged and connected throughout this meeting by sharing your insights with colleagues in attendance and online.

We remain grateful to our network members, partners, research teams, funders, community organizations, stakeholders, and study participants. You have supported our ongoing research agenda to end the global HIV epidemic.

Thank you all for your continued hard work, dedication, and passion.

Warm Regards,

Myron S. Cohen, MD
HPTN Principal Investigator

Wafaa M. El-Sadr, MD, MPH, MPA
HPTN Principal Investigator

Are all sessions open for in person attendees?

In order to provide adequate space for social distancing all protocol team meetings will be limited to team members only. Others are welcome to join the meeting virtually from their hotel room.

To ensure air quality:

For air exchange, we constantly add treated fresh air into our HVAC system to ensure air exchange takes place to maintain air quality. In addition, public areas have CO2 sensors installed in the return air to check CO2 level and our building automation system automatically adjust the air exchange dampers accordingly to bring more fresh air into the space to manage air quality. We also use MERV 13 air filters in all of our public space including meeting space.
